

Public Transportation and Ridesharing

Public transportation and ridesharing are great ways to get to school and work. Not only are you helping to reduce air pollution and traffic congestion, but you get to sit back and relax while you get to your destination.

The following resources can be found in communities throughout the San Joaquin Valley:

North Valley

- » Dibs is available to anyone commuting in San Joaquin, Stanislaus or Merced counties. Dibs helps to connect you to smart travel options in one place – offering transportation options, incentives, tips, and even emergency rides home.
- » San Joaquin Council of Governments is available to anyone commuting in San Joaquin County – offering information on taking public transit, travel alerts, and ridesharing.
- » Stanislaus Council of Governments is available to commuters in Stanislaus County. StanCOG provides information about transit providers, as well as ridesharing.
- » Merced Council of Governments shares information on The Bus, Merced's Regional Transit System. It is the single public service provider for all of Merced County.

Central Valley

- » Valleyrides.com is available to anyone commuting in Fresno or Tulare counties. It offers information on air, rail, bus, taxi and other transportation services, including finding a carpool, vanpool or bike-pool.
- » Madera County Transportation Commission provides information to commuters in Madera County including the various fixed route providers and vanpool.
- » Fresno Council of Governments directs Fresno County commuters to its Resources icon which offers information on the various public transit agencies, ridesharing, planning and other programs in Fresno County.
- » Kings County Association of Governments shares information on the public transportation providers available to Kings County residents.

South Valley

- » CommuteKern is available to anyone commuting in Kern County with information on carpool, vanpools, marketing materials, commuter benefits and so much more.
- » Tulare County Association of Governments provides information to commuters in Tulare County about the various public transportation providers in the area, including bike paths and bike info, carpooling and vanpooling.
- » Kern Council of Governments directs Kern County residents to its 511 & Rideshare tabs to share information on ride matching and Kern 511. Kern 511 is a travel information service that provides traffic conditions, transit information and roadwork details in Kern County.